

THE Rescuers

The Scenario:

Vanished! Without a trace. Deep in the Canadian wilderness, a team of leading scientists set out to locate a rare flower. Their mission complete, the scientists were headed home. But they never arrived. Your world-famous team is summoned for this incredibly challenging search-and-rescue mission.

The Program:

- Your team must ultimately locate the scientists, treat their injuries, and evacuate them to safety
- Team members will be split up and be trained in one area of specialization that may include:
 - high angle rescue
 - rope stretcher construction
 - orienteering with compasses and GPS
 - wilderness first-aid and base camp management
 - radio communication
- Once the Search and Rescue begins all of these diverse skills must be integrated with precision and speed

Program Outcomes:

- ü Elevating team spirit and morale
- ü Creating “big-picture” thinking and generating interdepartmental collaboration
- ü Deepening a sense of responsibility, empowerment, and ownership
- ü Finding the winning balance between planning and execution
- ü Fostering effective communication

"The Search and Rescue mission gave our senior leadership team a way to reclaim control and regain clarity about the value of big picture thinking, shared leadership and explicit communication that can sometimes get lost when we move at speed"

Mark A. Cohen – Former Chairman of the Board & Chief Executive Officer, Sears Canada Inc.
